Make patient engagement truly engaging

Patient engagement means more than just communication with providers, closing care gaps, and providing basic information on a patient portal. Now patients expect greater access to their information and the ability to self-serve, mimicking the conveniences found in more consumer-driven industries. With robust scheduling capabilities, patient-centered care plans, and on-demand access to medical information, our solution enables you to meet patients in all the roles they play throughout the care continuum: from patient to payer to care team member. Delivering a truly engaging patient experience that helps you and employers influence patients to actively participate in their own care is critical to helping you optimize operational efficiency and achieve better clinical and financial results.

Keep providers (and patients) happy

We organize the moment of care so that your physicians can focus on the patient instead of paperwork. As part of that, you can leverage our Patient Record Sharing capabilities that automatically search our comprehensive network of care sites, as well as CommonWell and Carequality, to locate your patient's records and surface them directly in your clinical workflow. Plus, we maintain endpoints to 600K+ to pharmacies, labs, imaging centers, and other healthcare providers, so you don't have to log into other systems to access outside data.

As a result, you get the information you need to control point-of-care decisions and delight patients with the quality of their experience. We've seen these benefits drive physician and patient loyalty across multiple provider organizations.

Tailor provider and patient experiences to meet business needs

We know that no one system can serve every use case. Our capabilities ensure each organization has the flexibility to extend athenaOne®'s clinical, patient engagement, and practice management workflows based on your business' needs. We expose 750+ APIs so clients can easily leverage proprietary and third-party solutions. Additionally, with the athenahealth Marketplace, we have the largest app store in healthcare IT (HIT), connecting you to 300+ third-party solutions across 55 categories covering provider productivity, patient engagement, telemedicine, clinical decision support, and more. By offering a one-stop shop to find HIT capabilities that seamlessly connect to your systems, you and employers can see value in these solutions, faster.
